The present peer review system depends on fairness, honesty and transparency of all stakeholders – editors, reviewers and researchers. It can involve one or more reviewers and should be completed within a reasonable period of time. Researchers must avoid mentioning friends, well-wishers and mentors as reviewers and must decline to review research of close associates, friends and students.

Outcomes

All the participants had understood about the importance why ethics are mandatory for the researchers to perform any research work. The need for ethics in research was understood by the students. There is an utmost requirement in maintaining the ethics is indeed a much needed at this point of time. 65 students had attended the seminar.
